The Contemporary Issues of Native America course (Anthro 370), the Certificate Program in Native American and Indigenous Studies (CPNAIS) and the Department of Anthropology invite you to join us for a talk by Judy Dow.

Finding Surprises and Building Memories from the Land
Feb 16, Room 168C (Campus Center)
2:30 pm.

Judy Dow is an Abenaki basket-maker. She works with students of all ages. She helps her students to discover the mysteries that are “hiding in plain sight” on the land that is all around them. Judy uses art, science, history and math to tell the story. She will share her work with youth, demonstrating how she guides them in examining the history of ten different hardscrabble farms, identifying the local plants, and mapping abandoned farm cellar holes, barns and wells, all to make their town a safer place.
